Announcing Speedline Technologies, Inc. joins “Industrial Strength” Equipment Charity Auction – Benefiting The Lance Armstrong Foundation LIVESTRONG

Sterling, Massachusetts – June 3, 2010 – Jeff Mogensen announces Speedline Technologies, Inc. has joined the fight against cancer and his industrial auction benefiting The Lance Armstrong Foundation - LIVESTRONG. Adding to his efforts cycling in the LIVESTRONG Challenge Series and organizing fundraising events Mogensen’s auction unites the global electronics assembly community through an industry-wide electronics equipment auction with all profits going to charity.

Speedline will be donating a Momentum® stencil printer to the auction. The Momentum combines industry-leading performance and technology into an affordable platform that is widely used throughout the electronics assembly community. Scott Koizumi, VP/General Manager, “All of us at Speedline are proud to support the auction, LIVESTRONG Challenge Series and their dedication to fighting cancer.”

The program provides donors like Speedline Technologies, Inc. an opportunity to sell their equipment in a one-time, online public auction, with profits going to LIVESTRONG. The on-line auction has been scheduled to run August 31 – September 3, 2010 with all the items available for viewing at www.xlineassets.com.

Mogensen comments “I am very excited about Speedline Technologies, Inc. participation in this project and that they’ve joined our fight. They are a highly respected group of people and company within the industry. Their donation will make a big difference in our fight against cancer and in support of those affected by it. I am very grateful for their support.”
